I'd like to show you how to develop the perfect phone greeting. A greeting is our first impression with the customer. It can start things off on the right foot or convince the customer they're about to receive poor service. Now, many people think the greeting is too basic to bother practicing. But be careful, it's more difficult than it looks.

In a corporation, as defined in its first usage in a 1963 internal memorandum at the Stanford Research Institute, a stakeholder is a member of the "groups without whose support the organization would cease to exist". The theory was later developed and championed by R. Edward Freeman in the 1980s. Since then it has gained wide acceptance in business practice and in theorizing relating to ...
